Postal Employee Hurt in Fight With Suspect

COLUMBIA, Pa., Aug. 26—Police here said yesterday they had captured the man who stole 49 money order blanks from the Yardville postoffice, three miles south of Trenton, N. J.

Free since Aug. 9 when the theft was first discovered and a multi-state alarm broadcast, the alleged thief was said to have laid out a busy money-order cashing itinerary that took him from Pennsylvania to North Carolina and back.

Police, describing the man as a "good-looking blonde kid," identified him as Carroll Eugene Croy, 27, of 20 Maguire road, Hamilton Square Township, N. J.

For one bristling moment a clerk in the Columbia post office, William W. Sample, 52, realized the man before him was the one police in several eastern states had been trying to track down for the past two weeks.

Pulls Ruse

"Wait a minute," he said to Croy after he had checked the number of the money order the latter proposed to cash with the official list of stolen orders, "I have to get the money out of the safe."

Sample entered the office of the postmaster, armed himself with a revolver in a desk, asked the postmaster to notify police and slowly walked out into the lobby and pointed the weapon at Croy.

"I'm holding you for the police," Sample informed the young man in what he hoped were noncommittal tones, though, he admitted later, he was trembling.

Croy lunged at Sample and the two men fell to the floor struggling for possession of the revolver while a score of men, women and children scurried for safety.

The older man wheezed with exertion. His eyes strained in their sockets as he sought to retain possession of the revolver, but there was a loud report. A .45-caliber slug struck Sample in the chest and issued from his back.

Overpower Suspect

Postmaster Harry Shreiner and another clerk, Harry Smith, fell on Croy an instant later and overpowered him.

Sample was taken to the Columbia Hospital where his condition was described as serious.

Police described Croy as an ex-convict. The money order he proposed to cash was the last of the 49 he had stolen from the Yardville post office two weeks ago.

In his pockets police found $2380 which they said Croy admitted accumulating by cashing the stolen money orders.

EMILIE, Aug. 26—Pay increases, effective September 1, were awarded to officers of Bristol township police force and highway department employees at a meeting of the township commissioners here last night.

Commissioner Fred K. Hibbs presided, in the absence of George Sottung, president of the board. All other commissioners were in attendance.

The police officers, with the exception of the chief, were granted across-the-board raises of $300 a year, bringing the minimum police salary to $3600. New officers serving probationary periods will be included in the raise, but no increase was granted to the police chief.

The commissioners awarded pay raises of $100 a year to Harry Zobel and John Wyman, supervisors in the highway department. A five-cent hourly raise was granted to other department employees.

Life insurance and pension policies for the police were discussed with an insurance agent attending the meeting.

Hibbs said the commissioners will consider the offers of a number of companies, and pick a policy to take effect next year.

"Operation Press" Speeds Ahead As Workers Assemble Equipment

The Courier's "Operation Press" sped forward today with riggers of Trenton 68, International Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers rapidly unboxing and placing press parts in place.

The main base of the 44 ton press has been fitted into place and supporting equipment is rising on the frame of the giant press. The job, which will take a month to two months depending upon difficulties encountered, was off to a flying start, the workers reported.

Space Lacked

Hampered by lack of storage space, the construction team has found it necessary to place some of the giant boxes of press parts in a garage in back of the building.

Boxes are brought to the cellar, the parts taken out and assembled. Finally the completely assembled unit is mounted in its proper place on the press frame.

"Operation Press" at The Courier's Beaver street plant last week assumed the air of a major project with a 12-ton swivel crane lowering 18 wooden crates parts, each weighing about a ton, into the basement.

A 20-ton tractor-trailer brought the first section of the press to the Courier plant from the Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill. Two more tractor-trailers brought the remainder of the 44-ton press.

The equipment was lowered by the boom into a side opening of the newspaper plant leading to the basement, where heavy steel rollers manned by riggers, moved the parts to a position where they were made accessible for assembling by skilled men.

Eighteen crated boxes were removed from the first tractor-trailer, each box averaging a ton in weight.

Protest Note Hits Builder, Asks Repairs

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 26—A stormy exchange of letters between a Levittown resident and the head of the building firm was made public last night by Jules Levin, of 142 Lakeside drive, a director of the Levittown Civic Association.

Levin said he addressed a letter to the Loan Guarantee Division of the Veterans Administration and sent copies to Levitt & Sons, Inc., the Federal Housing Administration in Washington, Congressman Karl C. King and the Dry Dock Savings and Loan Association, the bank that handled the mortgage on his home.

Levin said that a letter dated August 21 and signed by William J. Levitt was received by him and refuted the complaints brought out in his letter.

Levin in his missive outlined a five - point complaint concerning Levittown streets, driveways and lawns. He said that the street, sidewalk and lawn adjoining his home were cracked and in need of repair, and that "complaints made to (Levitt) have been ignored."

Levin said in his letter the facts outlined by Levin were not true, and that the only item in need of repair, the sidewalk, would be repaired by that firm "although we do not own it."

Levitt Hits "Clique"

Levin said, "Normally such letters are a matter of routine, but because I am familiar with this little clique of dissenters and obstructionists that exists in your section . . . I personally inspected your property together with the head of our service department."

"We suggest that you drop your political activities and pay more attention to your premises. I might also suggest that you be very careful with the way you loosely make accusations and pass them around. We have laws on the subject, and it is only a question of time when this company will forget its sense of humor and decide to make an example of those who glibly distort the truth for their own selfish purposes."

A spokesman for the Levitt firm, present at the meeting when Levin made the exchange a matter of record, denounced the letters as "indicating collusion."

Identical Postmarks

He said that seven letters were received by the building firm "within a short period of time," showing reporters five similar envelopes with nearly identical postmarks, in which the letters were received.

"They apparently emanated from the same source," he said. "The fact that they were so identical in subject matter, though a bit different in

Joint School Board Delays Action On Vocational School

LANGHORNE, August 26 — Plans for participating in a joint venture which would produce a vocational school for the county were temporarily shelved last night by the Neshaminy School Board.

The Board said, however, that the discussion would be resumed at a later date.

Discussion on another project, the building of a junior high school, was also delayed by the group pending the outcome of a special meeting which will be held "within two or three weeks."

Also announced at the meeting was the official fall semester opening date, September 10 for elementary school children and September 21 for high school students, including those of the seventh grade.

President John E. Paul said that high school students will operate on a curtailed schedule for the first "few weeks," until the new school building is completed.

He said contractors have promised 28 usable rooms by the opening date, and 33 rooms "around Thanksgiving."

In the meantime, pupils will attend the school from 7:45 a. m. until noon, and then adjourn. Contractors will continue to work on the building in the afternoons until it is completed, he said.

Identical Postmarks
He said that seven letters were received by the building firm "within a short period of time," showing reporters five similar envelopes with nearly identical postmarks, in which the letters were received.

"They apparently emanated from the same source," he said. "The fact that they were so identical in subject matter, though a bit different in content."

He said that seven letters were received by the building firm "within a short period of time," showing reporters five similar envelopes with nearly identical postmarks, in which the letters were received.

Discussion on another project, the building of a junior high school, was also delayed by the group pending the outcome of a special meeting which will be held "within two or three weeks."

Also announced at the meeting was the official fall semester opening date, September 10 for elementary school children and September 21 for high school students, including those of the seventh grade.

President John E. Paul said that high school students will operate on a curtailed schedule for the first "few weeks," until the new school building is completed.

He said contractors have promised 28 usable rooms by the opening date, and 33 rooms "around Thanksgiving."

In the meantime, pupils will attend the school from 7:45 a. m. until noon, and then adjourn. Contractors will continue to work on the building in the afternoons until it is completed, he said.

Protest Note Hits Builder, Asks Repairs

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 26—A stormy exchange of letters between a Levittown resident and the head of the building firm was made public last night by Jules Levin, of 142 Lakeside drive, a director of the Levittown Civic Association.

Levin said he addressed a letter to the Loan Guarantee Division of the Veterans Administration and sent copies to Levitt & Sons, Inc., the Federal Housing Administration in Washington, Congressman Karl C. King and the Dry Dock Savings and Loan Association, the bank that handled the mortgage on his home.

Levin said that a letter dated August 21 and signed by William J. Levitt was received by him and refuted the complaints brought out in his letter.

Levin in his missive outlined a five-point complaint concerning Levittown streets, driveways and lawns. He said that the street, sidewalk and lawn adjoining his home were cracked and in need of repair, and that "complaints made to (Levitt) have been ignored."

Levin said in his letter the facts outlined by Levin were not true, and that the only item in need of repair, the sidewalk, would be repaired by that firm "although we do not own it."

Levitt Hits "Clique"
Levin said, "Normally such letters are a matter of routine, but because I am familiar with this little clique of dissenters and obstructionists that exists in your section . . . I personally inspected your property together with the head of our service department."

"We suggest that you drop your political activities and pay more attention to your premises. I might also suggest that you be very careful with the way you loosely make accusations and pass them around. We have laws on the subject, and it is only a question of time when this company will forget its sense of humor and decide to make an example of those who glibly distort the truth for their own selfish purposes."

A spokesman for the Levitt firm, present at the meeting when Levin made the exchange a matter of record, denounced the letters as "indicating collusion."

He said that seven letters were received by the building firm "within a short period of time," showing reporters five similar envelopes with nearly identical postmarks, in which the letters were received.

"They apparently emanated from the same source," he said. "The fact that they were so identical in subject matter, though a bit different in content."

Joint School Board Delays Action On Vocational School

LANGHORNE, August 26 — Plans for participating in a joint venture which would produce a vocational school for the county were temporarily shelved last night by the Neshaminy School Board.

The board said, however, that the discussion would be resumed at a later date.

Discussion on another project, the building of a junior high school, was also delayed by the group pending the outcome of a special meeting which will be held "within two or three weeks."

Also announced at the meeting was the official fall semester opening date, September 10 for elementary school children and September 21 for high school students, including those of the seventh grade.

"That is purely a problem between the home owner and home builder," he continued.

The board voted to present to the membership at large at the next meeting the suggestion that a committee be formed to handle all complaints of general problems. They also voted that the Association go on record as having taken no action to date on the motion passed at its last meeting to write Congressman King and Senators Edward Martin and James H. Eight Seek Post In Morrisville

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 26 — A total of eight applications for the position of borough secretary have been received by borough officials.

The applications will be considered at the Oct. 13 council meeting.

The council announced that one application was from an experienced borough manager who asked for a salary of from $8000 to $8500 a year. Another was from an experienced borough secretary who asked for $6000 a year.

The position was made vacant by the death of William H. Howell, in June. Howell had held the position for 28 years.

of the firm of Skidmore and Mason, printing press engineers of New York city, which are assembling the press for operation; and Michael Gross, foreman of the Penn Valley Constructors, which installed the concrete pit for the press.

The crew of riggers from Local 68, manned the operation while Grant "Reds" Tetterer of Morrisville, crane operator, and Harold Towne, his assistant, handled the rig on behalf of the firm of Greenlee and Son of Morrisville.

First Item

The first item on the agenda of the crane operator was removal of a two-story scaffolding along the north side of the Courier's building. This was removed in three minutes, all in one piece.

Then the riggers, with Thomas Fabrizio (a former pugilist who fought for 12 years under the name of Harry Murphy in New York and North Jersey) as foreman, kept the assembly line efficiently moving with their various tools and rollers. The crew consists of Erwin Bublat, Frank Waltz, Daniel Rossi and Joseph DeMarco, all of Local 68, Trenton.

ity of our smaller banks in the smaller communities and great danger exists in permitting these large institutions to spread and to control through branches the banking resources of our Commonwealth."

The proposed merger between the two banks was approved by the directors of both institutions July 21. Stockholders are scheduled to vote on the proposal Sept. 19. If approved each share of Conshohocken stock would be exchanged for one share of Philadelphia National Bank stock.

Elmer Cates, representing the Doylestown Trust Company, and secretary of the Bucks County Bankers Association told the meeting no-law exists which could prevent the movement of Philadelphia banks into the county.

Gifts To Hospital Are Tax Deductable

Gifts to the Lower Bucks County Hospital Completion Fund may be deducted from federal income taxes, James E. Harris, president of the Board of Directors, reminded contributors today. As a public institution, the hospital itself will be exempt from federal income tax.

A progress report of the fund will be made early next month, according to Charles E. Hunter, general manager for the campaign.

Since the start of the current fund campaign, 74 construction memorials have been reserved at the new hospital. The memorial committee has encouraged contributors or groups of contributors to memorialize their gifts. Contributions of $100 or more may be memorialized with inscriptions which will be placed in corridors and lobby of the new hospital.

Few Donors Seen At Red Cross Visit

Approximately 15 people turned out to donate blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile made a visit to Fairless Hills yesterday.

The bloodmobile visit, arranged through Danherst Corp. was set up at the Methodist Church, on Trenton road. Red Cross officials blamed the poor showing on confusion of dates and the short notice given for making arrangements.

The bloodmobile will be at Cornwells fire station, Bensalem township, Thursday, Sept. 10, under the sponsorship of the Lower Bensalem Industrial Association. Red Cross officials are confident that there will be a larger number of donors at this stop.

Bank Shares Sold In 'Brisk' Market

Public sale of 170 shares of stock in the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County was brisk yesterday with bids by three persons ranging from $35.50 to $39 per share, Cashier John Johnson reported.

The shares held in an estate were sold in 10 share lots and brought approximately $6,409. The sale was held on the river level floor of the bank.

trooper was wounded seriously when he was shot by a bullet allegedly fired by Wheatley while the trooper was investigating a highway accident near Langhorne.

Damages Asked

A $335,000 damage suit by Trooper Caldarelli against Wheatley will also be placed on the docket to be heard possibly in October. In the suit Caldarelli charges Wheatley with permanent injury and a nervous breakdown from which he has not yet recovered and which has prevented his return to duty. Part of the damage suit figure is for punitive damages.

Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court, Walter C. Schroeder, said he attributed the big increase in criminal cases for the September term to the rapid growth of the industrial area in lower Bucks county, and the close proximity of metropolitan centers to this lower Bucks county industrial area.

Pick County

"Teen-agers seem to pick on nearby lower Bucks county for many of their escapades in crime," Schroeder said. "With a rapidly increasing population in any industrial area, this can be expected, but we never thought that our criminal court calendar would be as heavy as the September term shows now."

"The official statistics show however, that Bucks county is keeping pace with other parts of the country where industry is expanding. Crime is bound to increase unless there is something done about it."

No Increase

The criminal list for the September term does not show any material increase in crime in the central and upper Bucks county sections.

Under the present Bucks county court calendar procedure, the Grand Jury convenes Tuesday, Sept. 8, the day after Labor day, and jury trials get under way the week of Sept. 14. Jury cases that have not been disposed of before that time, go over until Monday, Oct. 4. The next session Grand Jury after the Sept. 8 session is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 2.

The list of 152 new cases is the largest in the 16 year memory of Deputy Clerk Schroeder.

Men Roast Corn At An Annual Picnic

Water Restrictions Still in Effect

Restrictions on the use of water in Bristol Borough and its water market area are still in effect even though hot weather has moderated somewhat. Water Committee Chairman William W. Wallace said today.

The water supply is still short enough so that lawns will have to remain thirsty and cars unwashed for the rest of the summer.

L. MAKEFIELD TWP., Aug. 26 — Pennsylvania high school sent 39 players and two managers to football camp, at Newton, N. J., for one week. Along with the group went Varsity coaches, "Jim" Egli, and "Joe" Gavin; Junior high coaches, Henry Eisenhart and Frank Jakob.

This is the second year that Pennsylvania football squad attended camp. Last year 33 boys and two managers participated.

A number of new boys are reported on the squad this season. First game is with Neshaminy, Sept. 18. This should be a crucial game due to the fact that Egli was varsity coach two years ago at Neshaminy. Last year he was assistant coach at Pennsbury.

Last year's squad had only six seniors, however. "Joe" Jellett, 220 lb. tackle from last year's varsity has dropped out of school. End. "Sam" McIntyre has transferred to another school, and Varsity guard, "Bill" Solarski has not reported to practice as yet.

Private Papers Cause Collision

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 26 — The poorly-timed descent of a sheet of private papers from the sun-visor of an automobile yesterday afternoon was the cause of $750 in damages to two cars involved in a collision at the intersection of Route 1 and Street road.

A car operated by David M. Miller, 21, of Haldeman avenue and Red Lion road, Philadelphia, had halted to await a change in the traffic light signal at Street road.

At that instant, John J. Heidi, of King George road, Pennington, N. J., was occupied with recovering papers which fell from his sun-visor to the floor of his car. As he bent over to retrieve them, he struck the rear of Miller's car.

Patrolman William Schramm, of the Bensalem Township Police estimated damage to Miller's car at $350 and damage to Heidi's car at $400.

Neither driver was injured.

2 Autos Damaged In Corner Crash

FALLSINGTON, Aug. 26 — Approximately $100 in damages to each car resulted from a collision yesterday afternoon at 5:20 p. m. at Chelsea road and Elmwood road in Fairless Hills, according to Falls Township police.

Eight Seek Post In Morrisville

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 26 — A total of eight applications for the position of borough secretary have been received by borough officials. The applications will be considered at the Oct. 13 council meeting.

The council announced that one application was from an experienced borough manager who asked for a salary of from $8000 to $8500 a year. Another was from an experienced borough secretary who asked for $6000 a year.

The position was made vacant by the death of William H. Howell, in June. Howell had held the position for 28 years.

of the firm of Skidmore and Mason, printing press engineers of New York City, which are assembling the press for operation; and Michael Gross, foreman of the Penn Valley Constructors, which installed the concrete pit for the press.

The crew of riggers from Local 68, manned the operation while Grant "Reds" Tetterer of Morrisville, crane operator, and Harold Towne, his assistant, handled the rig on behalf of the firm of Greenlee and Son of Morrisville.

First Item

The first item on the agenda of the crane operator was removal of a two-story scaffolding along the north side of the Courier's building. This was removed in three minutes, all in one piece.

Then the riggers, with Thomas Fabrizio (a former pugilist who fought for 12 years under the name of Harry Murphy in New York and North Jersey) as foreman, kept the assembly line efficiently moving with their various tools and rollers. The crew consists of Erwin Bublat, Frank Waltz, Daniel Rossi and Joseph DeMarco, all of Local 68, Trenton.

Bucks Bankers

ity of our smaller banks in the smaller communities and great danger exists in permitting these large institutions to spread and to control through branches the banking resources of our Commonwealth.

The proposed merger between the two banks was approved by the directors of both institutions July 21. Stockholders are scheduled to vote on the proposal Sept. 19. If approved each share of Conshohocken stock would be exchanged for one share of Philadelphia National Bank stock.

Elmer Cates, representing the Doylestown Trust Company, and secretary of the Bucks County Bankers Association told the meeting no law exists which could prevent the movement of Philadelphia banks into the county.

Gifts To Hospital Are Tax Deductable

Gifts to the Lower Bucks County Hospital Completion Fund may be deducted from federal income taxes, James E. Harris, president of the Board of Directors, reminded contributors today. As a public institution, the hospital itself will be exempt from federal income tax.

A progress report of the fund will be made early next month, according to Charles E. Hunter, general manager for the campaign.

Since the start of the current fund campaign, 74 construction memorials have been reserved at the new hospital. The memorial committee has encouraged contributors or groups of contributors to memorialize their gifts. Contributions of $100 or more may be memorialized with inscriptions which will be placed in corridors and lobby of the new hospital.

Few Donors Seen At Red Cross Visit

Approximately 15 people turned out to donate blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile made a visit to Fairless Hills yesterday.

The bloodmobile visit, arranged through Danherst Corp., was set up at the Methodist Church, on Trenton road. Red Cross officials blamed the poor showing on confusion of dates and the short notice given for making arrangements.

The bloodmobile will be at Cornwells fire station, Bensalem township, Thursday, Sept. 10, under the sponsorship of the Lower Bucks County Industrial Association. Red Cross officials are confident that there will be a larger number of donors at this stop.

Bank Shares Sold In 'Brisk' Market

Public sale of 170 shares of stock in the Farmers National Bank of Bucks County was brisk yesterday with bids by three persons ranging from $35.50 to $39 per share. Cashier John Johnson reported.

The shares held in an estate were sold in 10 share lots and brought approximately $6,409. The sale was held on the river level floor of the bank.

Damages Asked

A $335,000 damage suit by Trooper Caldarelli against Wheatley will also be placed on the docket to be heard possibly in October. In the suit Caldarelli charges Wheatley with permanent injury and a nervous breakdown from which he has not yet returned to duty. Part of the damage suit figure is for punitive damages.

Deputy Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court, Walter C. Schroeder, said he attributed the big increase in criminal cases for the September term to the rapid growth of the industrial area in lower Bucks county, and the close proximity of metropolitan centers to this lower Bucks county industrial area.

Pick County

"Teen-agers seem to pick on nearby lower Bucks county for many of their escapades in crime," Schroeder said. "With a rapidly increasing population in any industrial area, this can be expected. But we never thought that our criminal court calendar would be as heavy as the September term shows now."

"The official statistics show however, that Bucks county is keeping pace with other parts of the country where industry is expanding. Crime is bound to increase unless there is something done about it."

No Increase

The criminal list for the September term does not show any material increase in crime in the central and upper Bucks county sections.

Under the present Bucks county court calendar procedure, the Grand Jury convenes Tuesday, Sept. 8, the day after Labor day, and jury trials get under way the week of Sept. 14. Jury cases that have not been disposed of before that time, go over until Monday, Oct. 4. The next session Grand Jury after the Sept. 8 session is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 2.

The list of 152 new cases is the largest in the 16 year memory of Deputy Clerk Schroeder.

Water Restrictions Still in Effect

Restrictions on the use of water in Bristol Borough and its water market area are still in effect even though hot weather has moderated somewhat. Water Committee Chairman William W. Wallace said today.

The water supply is still short enough so that lawns will have to remain thirsty and cars unwashed for the rest of the summer.

School News

L. MAKEFIELD TWP., Aug. 26 — Pennsbury high school sent 39 players and two managers to football camp, at Newton, N. J., for one week. Along with the group went Varsity coaches, "Jim" Egli, and "Joe" Gavin; Junior high coaches, Henry Eisenhart and Frank Jakob.

This is the second year that Pennsbury football squad attended camp. Last year 33 boys and two managers participated.

A number of new boys are reported on the squad this season.

First game is with Neshaminy, Sept. 18. This should be a crucial game due to the fact that Egli was varsity coach two years ago at Neshaminy. Last year he was assistant coach at Pennsbury.

Last year's squad had only six seniors, however, "Joe" Jellett, 220 lb. tackle from last year's varsity has dropped out of school. End, "Sam" McIntyre has transferred to another school, and Varsity guard, "Bill" Solarski has not reported to practice as yet.

Private Papers Cause Collision

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Aug. 26 — The poorly-timed descent of a sheaf of private papers from the sun-visor of an automobile yesterday afternoon was the cause of $750 in damages to two cars involved in a collision at the intersection of Route 1 and Street road.

A car operated by David M. Miller, 21, of Haldeman avenue and Red Lion road, Philadelphia, had halted to await a change in the traffic light signal at Street road.

At that instant, John J. Heidi, of King George road, Pennington, N. J., was occupied with recovering papers which fell from his sun-visor to the floor of his car. As he bent over to retrieve them, he struck the rear of Miller's car.

Patrolman William Schramm, of the Bensalem Township Police estimated damage to Miller's car at $350 and damage to Heidi's car at $400.

Neither driver was injured.

Miss Reetz, president, conducted the business meeting, held on the porch. Group singing and prayer opened the session, with scripture readings by Mrs. Robert Harghey. Minutes, read by Miss Louise Doan, preceded treasurer's report by Mrs. Adolph Holzworth.

Dead-line of Sept. 13 was set for acceptance of good, used clothing to be shipped to Korea. These items may be left at the church.

Newtown Artist To Hold Exhibit Of New Technique

NEWTOWN, Aug. 26 — R. John Foster, 126 North State street, Bucks county artist, will exhibit in the Educational building, Doylestown, during September.

The 37 pictures will vary from conventional street scenes to the neo-objective, the latest form of expressionist art.

Foster's neo-objectives have won him professional acclaim and many prizes. "Iconograph" is one of his better known works. He received the Philadelphia Sketch club's gold medal for submitting the best oil painting to its annual show for this painting.

"Birthday" is another outstanding work, with recognizable figures and objects superimposed in a balanced manner that is pleasing to the eye. Foster's neo-objectives have been praised for their striking color, sense of composition, for their third dimensional effects and for good draftsmanship.

During the past three years he has broken away from familiar scenes and abstractionism to develop neo-objectivism, a combination of both. He describes it as an attempt to combine objectivity and subjectivity with modern decoration.

Couple Enplanes For Munich Trip

NEWTOWN, Aug. 26 — Mr. and Mrs. William Fretz left Aug. 25 from International Airport, Philadelphia, for Munich, Germany, after spending the past month with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stewart Whittam.

Mr. Fretz is field supervisor of Munich Central Exchange, one of the six European Exchanges of the United States Government.

The Exchanges are what we knew in World Wars I and II as "post exchanges" and according to Mr. Fretz says, "it is 'little America'."

All the head officials are government men, but the help in the stores and factories is German.

Miss Dorothy Fretz, their daughter, is secretary to the commanding officer of the Army Hospital in Heidelberg, through which office all classified information is sent to Washington, D. C. She has traveled extensively — Spain, France, Austria, Switzerland and to Tangiers, Africa.

Mrs. Fretz is a member of the board of the Federated German-American Women's Clubs. The Fretz's own a property in Newtown. They are sent home for one month every two years.

Ewing and Lawrence Townships in New Jersey, scenes of recent post office robberies.

Monday night Hamilton Township Detective Captain Philip Booz and Detective Thomas Alston recovered $9,700 in U. S. Savings Bonds from a hiding place in Croy's home. They said the bonds had been stolen from the Yardville post office.

Find Other Loot

The detectives also found a box of stamped envelopes, several books of stamps, a money order stamp stolen from the Lawrenceville post office, a typewriter stolen from the Mercerville post office, a kit of burglar's tools, a rifle and a .22-caliber revolver.

Columbia police said Croy used the stolen money order stamp to "certify" the blanks in his possession. He had forged fictitious names to the driver's license and registration card he carried as identification.

Croy told police he had cashed the stolen money order in the Morrisville post office the morning after the theft before authorities had an opportunity to alert postal authorities and merchants in a tri-state area as they did later.

The theft was first reported by Postmaster Peter H. Larkin, of Yardville.

Bucks County and New Jersey expected a stream of the fraudulent orders to appear, but none showed up at first. Warnings were broadcast throughout the Delaware Valley area, particularly to merchants in Philadelphia, where Chief Inspector Albert E. DuBois instructed all police captains to be on the lookout for attempts to cash the orders.

In the week following the theft, Croy said he cashed six more money orders in the Camden-to-Trenton area and then "lay low" until a week ago when he journeyed to Columbus, O., to cash an order. Then, he said, he went to North Carolina where he was successful in cashing 15 more forged orders.

He followed an itinerary north after that, stopping to cash several more in Maryland and a few others in York and Gettysburg, Pa., before he reached the post office here in Columbia where he tried to cash the last order for $98.

Ex-Convict

Police said Croy had been released in September, 1951, from the Iowa State Penitentiary where he served an eight-year term for breaking into a post office in Iowa.

Croy told police he had come to live with a sister in Trenton and had gotten a job there with a television repair firm. He said he had made a down payment on a Hamilton Square house and was making payments also for a 1952-model automobile.

A .22-caliber rifle was found in Croy's automobile parked near the Columbia post office.

For a time, State Police and FBI agents questioned Croy in connection with the truck-driver murders on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, but it was admitted those killings had been done with a .32-caliber weapon.

Croy is being held for a hearing before a U. S. Commissioner.

California was admitted as a Free State, Sept. 9, 1850.

Order Cashed
The first stolen money order cashed was for $100. Police in York and Gettysburg, Pa., before he reached the post office here in Columbia where he tried to cash the last order for $98.

Ex-Convict
Police said Croy had been released in September, 1951, from the Iowa State Penitentiary where he served an eight-year term for breaking into a post office in Iowa. Croy told police he had come to live with a sister in Trenton and had gotten a job there with a television repair firm. He said he had made a down payment on a Hamilton Square house and was making payments also for a 1952-model automobile.

A .22-caliber rifle was found in Croy's automobile parked near the Columbia post office. For a time, State Police and FBI agents questioned Croy in connection with the truck-driver murders on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, but it was admitted those killings had been done with a .32-caliber weapon.

Croy is being held for a hearing before a U. S. Commissioner.

Bucks County and New Jersey expected a stream of the fraudulent orders to appear, but none showed up at first. Warnings were broadcast throughout the Delaware Valley area, particularly to merchants in Philadelphia, where Chief Inspector Albert E. DuBois instructed all police captains to be on the lookout for attempts to cash the orders.

In the week following the theft, Croy said he cashed six more money orders in the Camden-to-Trenton area and then "lay low" until a week ago when he journeyed to Columbus, O., to cash an order. Then, he said, he went to North Carolina where he was successful in cashing 15 more forged orders. He followed an itinerary north after that, stopping to cash several more in Maryland and a few others in York and Gettysburg, Pa., before he reached the post office here in Columbia where he tried to cash the last order for $98.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If thou seek him, he will be found of thee.—1 Ch. 28:9.
Faith is the key. If we sincerely believe nothing is more certain than that we will find him. His kingdom is within us.

AND THE MONEY ROLLS IN

Through one investigating committee or another, the public continues its education in how campaign funds are raised. The latest course comes by courtesy of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, and a cooperative witness who is also a Washington lawyer.

As explained by the witness, his plan was simplicity itself. First you find a rich client with an income tax "problem." Then you effect a favorable settlement, in this case one that allegedly saves the client an ultimate $1,500,000.

Grateful client ponies up $65,000 to helpful lawyer — in cash. Helpful lawyer in turn ponies up $30,000 to the Democratic National Committee, which takes the money and shunts it into the presidential campaign fund of 1948.

In between, as the committee learned, there were a few essential detours. There's that exasperating Hatch Act which limits individual contributions to $3,000. But what's a law among friendly and ingenious contributors? The witness explained how such technicalities are surmounted. You simply round up some helpful friends, slip them the cash and they return checks, in the legal amount, made out to the campaign fund.

It's simple, tidy and nobody gets hurt except maybe some taxpayers with "problems" not so easily or resourcefully resolved.

Painters Play Havoc With Happy Home

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (INS)—It takes a heap o'livin' to make a house a home and just 30-minutes for painters and paper-hangers to make it into a heap.

Day before yesterday I lived in what I fondly—and perhaps with some prejudice—regarded as one of the most attractive apartments in town, full of delightful furniture and charming bric-a-brac.

So it looked a trifle soiled around the edges; but what New York apartment doesn't, when it hasn't been redecorated in three years? I live in the world's dirtiest city, bar none, and even the renowned phoebe snow would look like a chimney sweep after 72-hours in my precinct.

Still and all, the apartment was home. And the fruitwood chest, great-grandma's sofa, the mahogany highboy, the meisen, the waterford chandelier and the old fiddle-back side chairs added up to what I wistfully thought even the slick magazines would dub "gracious living."

Today—well, today no self-respecting junkman would bid a plugged nickel on the heap of rubble pushed into the center of every room in the apartment. It just sits there, leering out from under painted daubed canvas covers like an ancient and tattered beldame. The painters and paper hangers arrived yesterday to "re-do" the apartment. And, man! They redid it in 30-minutes in a manner to bring the blush of envy to the cheek of an atom bomb.

Never in my life have I seen such repulsive, shabby furniture, not even in a rigged county auction.

The simple fact that the sink, refrigerator, stove and cabinets are nailed down prevents the kitchen alone from resembling a fire sale in a particularly squalid tenement. "This revolting stuff represents our blood, sweat, toil and tears of almost 24-years," I cried to the head of clan Robb. "How can two men make it look so leprous in just a few moments?"

"Dammed if I know," said Mr. R. looking at the house with active distaste. "It takes years of practice. Or maybe it's a trade secret."

"Everything needs to be re-upholstered, repainted, polished or discarded," I said. "I didn't have any idea that everything was in such awful condition."

"Cheer up," said the head of the house, trying to find a chair to sit on. "When it gets sorted out and pushed back in place again, it'll look all right."

"And furthermore," I continued, "you are a human pack-rat. I have been cleaning out the closets and I give you just one more year before you become a full-fledged collector brother. If you put away one more travel folder, one more lead pencil, one more souvenir program, or one more old pair of slacks, I swear I shall divorce you!"

"If I had as many old hat-boxes, as many pairs of half worn out shoes, as many half-used jars of face goo and as many hand-bags on my shelves as you do on yours, I wouldn't talk!" Mr. R. said with considerable warmth.

I kicked viciously at a bit of grimy canvas.

"Look out. That's great-grandpa Fleming's mirror," cried Mr. R., as an ominous crash filled the room. "Well, it was," he added, and then said kindly, "What we need is a drink."

He steered his way in and out among the lumps of furniture. Five minutes later he stuck his head through the door again.

"Where's the bourbon?" he demanded. "I can't find it anywhere."

"In this apartment today, you've located it exactly," I said, "anywhere!"

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — The recent appearance of Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam before the house un-American activities committee—aside from what it brought out about him—is a documented demonstration of how slanted typewriters, in the hands of the working press, can seduce the public mind into distorted and baseless conceptions.

In this case it concerns a conception that is peculiarly convenient to the forces of subversion, by suggesting that the committee had made false and unfair charges, which it had to repudiate.

I am indebted to Mr. Gomer Bath, editor of the Peoria, Ill., Star, for an editorial published in that newspaper, in which he names the Associated Press and the United Press specifically, and says—with rare perception, even from afar—that the reporters for those organizations "apparently—fell short of the qualifications necessary to tell the story straight."

He then cites next-day headlines in leading newspapers over the country as proclaiming: "Bishop Oxnam cleared of red membership charges"; "Oxnam cleared of 'party' ties"; and "no evidence is found of Oxnam-red tie-up."

The headlines were based on the news stories, and the news stories were based on the fact that after the hearings were over, Rep. Doyle, of California, moved to indicate in the record that the hearings had produced no evidence identifying the bishop as a member of the Communist party. It was seconded by Republican Donald Jackson, also of California, and adopted.

The fact is, of course, that the bishop was cleared of nothing, because he never was charged with anything.

No one ever accused him of being a Communist, and so far as I know, no competent or responsible individual ever entertained any idea that he might be.

He had been accused, widely, of being a vain and glib old joiner, who lacked the precautionary responsibility to find out what he was lending his name to, before he lent it, and on that score he proved the case against himself in very conclusive fashion.

He admitted having joined and accepted leadership in leading Communist front and subversive organizations, some of which he said he resigned from, voluntarily, when he found out what they were. The resignations reflect credit on his basic motives, but the fact that those resignations were necessary—because he had joined the groups—demonstrates a soft and careless naivete to the national security that ill becomes a man of his influence.

Still worse, he admitted that he had authorized the use of his name by leftist groups on so many occasions that subversive organizations began using his name without his authority. This led Rep. Kit Clardy, Michigan Republican, to comment that the bishop had achieved for himself a place on the reds' "sucker list."

Rep. Francis Walter, Pennsylvania Republican, summed it up as follows:

"I think we demonstrated very clearly that the Communists are using well known and highly placed people, willing or otherwise, as dupes; and that the bigger the name, the better for their cause. I place Bishop Oxnam in that category."

But the facts, as reported by the working press of the A.P. and U.P.—not to mention scores of special correspondents for individual dailies over the nation—left the public with the impression that Bishop Oxnam had been called before the committee (he was there at his own request); he had been charged with being a Communist; he had proven his innocence in the open hearings; he had been exonerated and sanctioned by the committee.

The Peoria Star editorial says: "The story that Bishop Oxnam had been cleared of party membership charges was not only a false statement, but it served to obscure the more important fact that he had been accused of membership in Communist front organizations. The bishop admitted having been a member of such organizations but denied that he knew the character and purpose of the ones he joined."

"Many persons will have missed that important point. Why? Because they read news stories (and headlines) that were pernicious half truths."

The phraseology is overkind. The stories were as inexcusable as they were unethical and untrue. And whether editor Bath realizes it or not, the case is not an accident.

Your Birthday by STELLA

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26 — Born today, you have a tremendous amount of physical energy and you are intense in everything you do. Your enthusiasms are high and your ambitions vaulting. You want success and plan to have it before you are very old. A born leader, your executive powers make it easy for you to command others. You are, however, the type who usually knows how to execute each detailed part of a large project so that in an emergency you can pitch in and work just as hard as anyone else.

There is one side of your character that may impede your success. You are inclined to start too many projects at one time, thus scattering the impact of concentrated force toward some single objective. If you will learn to finish one job before starting another, you will find that in the long run your progress will be faster.

Although you have a strong emotional nature, you are not demonstrative and rarely, if ever, show your true feelings. It may take you a long time to find the person with whom you want to share your life, but once you have made your choice it is forever. Generous to a fault, especially with members of your own family, you may need to learn to be more of a disciplinarian with your children.

He has done group work at the Chambersburg Community Center, Trenton, N. J. and casework with dren. Members of the fair sex are splendid home-makers and indulgent mothers.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

The Child Who "Talks Back"

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

IN this column, I have said that the best way to deal with the child who talks back to his father or mother is for the parent to cease talking back to him.

Some recent letters and observations, however, have led me to revise or explain this advice. I had had in mind the child who argues with the parent when denied some cherished privilege, or commanded to do something he doesn't want to do, or even when he's opinions conflict with the parents' on other matters. In such an instance, the child may always try to have the last word, no matter how reasonable the parents' explanation.

Maintain Silence

The main point I wish to make in this case is that the parent, after stating without heat, in the fewest possible words, the essential facts and reasons, should say no more, but let the child go on talking as long as he likes, provided, of course, the child was not abusive.

Frequently I learn of the poorly disciplined tot from three to five who, on being verbally restrained or exhorted, will shout to his mother, "Shut up." Unless this child has heard the like from a parent, he should, after one warning, be effectively punished for this utterance—by a quick sound spanking or having to sit unmused for twenty minutes in a chair.

Some young tots will shout "Shut up" or some other abusive remark to an adult who kindly accosts him on the street or elsewhere. This is an anti-social act which should be effectively for-bidden. Don't compare it in seriousness with the youngster's failure to respond at all when addressed by another person. This is practically never anti-social, but expresses excessive shyness or fear.

Indeed, calling any other person by an ugly name should be curbed in the preschool years. It is basically as anti-social as throwing stones at him, or attacking him with weapons.

While we also should discourage name-calling in the child over five or six, the problem is not as easily controlled, since the child is so often out of the presence of the parent and in contact with other children of wider areas. Anyway, name-calling, at eight, twelve or fourteen, may often be a kind of banter or common expression of the group. Perhaps we should take more account of the attitude with which the name is used—whether as a form of slang or medium of angry attack.

If we parents avoid abusive and contemptuous language ourselves, and cultivate lots of good fun and companionship with our children we may, with a quiet persuasive word now and then, win them to choose to use such expressions rarely or almost never.

Of course, there are some children who in rage curse their parents. That is no time for the parent to strike back with tongue or hand. A parent should wait silently for the time when he can talk calmly about this matter with the child, helping him see how serious it is, hoping to win him to choose to avoid repetition of such.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If thou seek him, he will be found of thee.—1 Ch. 28:9.

Faith is the key. If we sincerely believe nothing is more certain than that we will find him. His kingdom is within us.

AND THE MONEY ROLLS IN

Through one investigating committee or another, the public continues its education in how campaign funds are raised. The latest course comes by courtesy of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, and a cooperative witness who is also a Washington lawyer.

As explained by the witness, his plan was simplicity itself. First you find a rich client with an income tax "problem." Then you effect a favorable settlement, in this case one that allegedly saves the client an ultimate $1,500,000.

Grateful client ponies up $65,000 to helpful lawyer — in cash. Helpful lawyer in turn ponies up $30,000 to the Democratic National Committee, which takes the money and shunts it into the presidential campaign fund of 1948.

In between, as the committee learned, there were a few essential detours. There's that exasperating Hatch Act which limits individuals contributions to $3,000. But what's a law among friendly and ingenious contributors? The witness explained how such technicalities are surmounted. You simply round up some helpful friends, slip them the cash and they return checks, in the legal amount, made out to the campaign fund.

It's simple, tidy and nobody gets hurt except maybe some taxpayers with "problems" not so easily or resourcefully resolved.

Painters Play Havoc With Happy Home

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (INS)—It takes a heap o'livin' to make a house a home and just 30-minutes for painters and paper-hangers to make it into a heap.

Day before yesterday I lived in what I fondly—and perhaps with some prejudice—regarded as one of the most attractive apartments in town, full of delightful furniture and charming bric-a-brac.

So it looked a trifle soiled around the edges; but what New York apartment doesn't, when it hasn't been redecorated in three years? I live in the world's dirtiest city, bar none, and even the renowned phoebe snow would look like a chimney sweep after 72-hours in my precinct.

Still and all, the apartment was home. And the fruitwood chest, great-grandma's sofa, the mahogany highboy, the melens, the waterford chandelier and the old fiddle-back side chairs added up to what I wistfully thought even the slick magazines would dub "gracious living."

Today—well, today no self-respecting junkman would bid a plugged nickel on the heap of rubble pushed into the center of every room in the apartment. It just sits there, leering out from under paint-daubed canvas covers like an ancient and tattered beldame. The painters and paper hangers arrived yesterday to "re-do" the apartment. And, man! They redid it in 30-minutes in a manner to bring the blush of envy to the cheek of an atom bomb.

Never in my life have I seen such repulsive, shabby furniture, not even in a rigged country auction. The simple fact that the sink, refrigerator, stove and cabinets are nailed down prevents the kitchen alone from resembling a fire sale in a particularly squalid tenement. "This revolting stuff represents our blood, sweat, toil and tears of almost 24-years," I cried to the head of clan Robb. "How can two men make it look so leprous in just a few moments?"

"Dammed if I know," said Mr. R. looking at the house with active distaste. "It takes years of practice. Or maybe it's a trade secret."

"Everything needs to be re-upholstered, repainted, polished or discarded," I said. "I didn't have any idea that everything was in such awful condition."

"Cheer up," said the head of the house, trying to find a chair to sit on. "When it gets sorted out

and pushed back in place again, it'll look all right."

"And furthermore," I continued, "you are a human pack-rat. I have been cleaning out the closets and I give you just one more year before you become a full-fledged coiler brother. If you put away one more travel folder, one more lead pencil, one more souvenir program, or one more old pair of slacks, I swear I shall divorce you!"

"If I had as many old hat-boxes, as many pairs of half worn out shoes, as many half-used jars of face goo and as many hand-bags on my shelves as you do on yours, I wouldn't talk!" Mr. R. said with considerable warmth.

I kicked viciously at a bit of grimy canvas. "Look out. That's great-grandpa Fleming's mirror," cried Mr. R., as an ominous crash filled the room. "Well, it was," he added, and then said kindly, "What we need is a drink."

He steered his way in and out among the lumps of furniture. Five minutes later he stuck his head through the door again.

"Where's the bourbon?" he demanded. "I can't find it anywhere."

"In this apartment today, you've located it exactly," I said, "anywhere!"

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — The recent appearance of Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam before the house un-American activities committee—aside from what it brought out about him—is a documented demonstration of how slanted typewriters, in the hands of the working press, can seduce the public mind into distorted and baseless conceptions.

In this case it concerns a conception that is peculiarly convenient to the forces of subversion, by suggesting that the committee had made false and unfair charges, which it had to repudiate.

I am indebted to Mr. Gomer Bath, editor of the Peoria, Ill., Star, for an editorial published in that newspaper, in which he names the Associated Press and the United Press specifically, and says—with rare perception, even from afar—that the reporters for those organizations "apparently—fell short of the qualifications necessary to tell the story straight."

He then cites next-day headlines in leading newspapers over the country as proclaiming: "Bishop Oxnam cleared of red membership charges"; "Oxnam cleared of 'party' ties"; and "no evidence is found of Oxnam-red tie-up."

The headlines were based on the news stories, and the news stories were based on the fact that after the hearings were over, Rep. Doyle, of California, moved to indicate in the record that the hearings had produced no evidence identifying the bishop as a member of the Communist party. It was seconded by Republican Donald Jackson, also of California, and adopted.

The fact is, of course, that the bishop was cleared of nothing, because he never was charged with anything.

No one ever accused him of being a Communist, and so far as I know, no competent or responsible individual ever entertained any idea that he might be.

He had been accused, widely, of being a vain and glib old joiner, who lacked the precautionary responsibility to find out what he was lending his name to, before he lent it, and on that score he proved the case against himself in very conclusive fashion.

He admitted having joined and accepted leadership in leading Communist front and subversive organizations, some of which he said he resigned from, voluntarily, when he found out what they were. The resignations reflect credit on his basic motives, but the fact that those resignations were necessary—because he had joined the groups—demonstrates a soft and careless naivete to the national security that ill becomes a man of his influence.

Still worse, he admitted that he had authorized the use of his name by leftist groups on so many occasions that subversive organizations began using his name without his authority. This led Rep. Kit Clardy, Michigan republican, to comment that the bishop had achieved for himself a place on the reds' "sucker list."

Rep. Francis Walter, Pennsylvania republican, summed it up as follows:

"I think we demonstrated very clearly that the Communists are using well known and highly placed people, willing or otherwise, as dupes; and that the bigger the name, the better for their cause. I place Bishop Oxnam in that category."

But the facts, as reported by the working press of the A.P. and U.P.—not to mention scores of special correspondents for individual dailies over the nation—left the public with the impression that Bishop Oxnam had been called before the committee (he was there at his own request); he had been charged with being a Communist; he had proven his innocence in the open hearings; he had been exonerated and sanctioned by the committee.

The Peoria Star editorial says: "The story that Bishop Oxnam had been cleared of party membership charges was not only a false statement, but it served to obscure the more important fact that he had been accused of membership in Communist front organizations. The bishop admitted having been a member of such organizations but denied that he knew the character and purpose of the ones he joined."

"Many persons will have missed that important point. Why? Because they read news stories (and headlines) that were pernicious half truths."

The phraseology is overkind. The stories were as inexcusable as they were unethical and untrue. And whether editor Bath realizes it or not, the case is not an accident.

Your Birthday by STELLA

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26

Born today, you have a tremendous amount of physical energy and you are intense in everything you do. Your enthusiasms are high and your ambitions vaulting.

You want success and plan to have it before you are very old. A born leader, your executive powers make it easy for you to command others. You are, however, the type who usually knows how to execute each detailed part of a large project so that in an emergency you can pitch in and work just as hard as anyone else.

There is one side of your character that may impede your success. You are inclined to start too many projects at one time, thus scattering the impact of concentrated force toward some single objective. If you will learn to finish one job before starting another, you will find that in the long run your progress will be faster.

Although you have a strong emotional nature, you are not demonstrative and rarely, if ever, show your true feelings. It may take you a long time to find the person with whom you want to share your life, but once you have made your choice it is forever. Generous to a fault, especially with members of your own family, you may need to learn to be more of a disciplinarian with your children.

Text: Luke 22:17—"And He took a cup, and when He had given thanks He said, 'Take this, and divide it among yourselves.'"

In the Sacrament of the Holy Communion we have a common power, that of sharing the love and body of Christ. It is significant to remember that our Lord gave thanks while His hand held the symbol of His death and suffering for you and me. What a wonderful way to transfer to us, His children, the power of the Christian faith. We must always recall that He desired that we, also, should eternally give thanks that we are Christians. It is true that Christians suffer as much, and often more, than those who do not believe; but the Christian has, with the suffering, strength to overcome it, while those who despise Him are soon overcome by their own evil. In a world of darkness and anguish, we must remain calm and tranquil; knowing that our thanks is through Him who gave to us His own body and blood. Let us pray: O Eternal Lord and Master, as we commune daily with Thee, in sharing our lives, talents, friendships and spirits with one another, grant to us Thy willing Spirit that we may not be found wanting in willingness to give our lives to Thee. Bless us and dedicate us to the great tasks of witnessing and evangelizing in the true faith for Thee Name's sake. Amen

Clubwomen to Mark Americanism Week

"Americanism Week" — September 13-19 — will be celebrated by members of Bucks Co. Federation of Women's Clubs with patriotic programs conducted in individual clubs. Mrs. William D. Lynch, president, is urging cooperation of all civic and patriotic organizations, schools and churches to join in this outward expression of appreciation of the "American Way of Life."

September 13, is "Americanism Sunday" and it is hoped that all churches will observe it.

Bucks County Federation is co-operating with the General Federation in its Americanism Campaign-Independence Hall Project, which begins during Americanism Week and which has a two-fold purpose.

1. To conduct an educational campaign so that every man, woman and child may better appreciate the struggles of our forefathers during the establishment of our democracy in a republic, and become aware of the great benefits derived under our constitutional form of government.

2. To raise enough funds to restore the entire first floor of Independence Hall, Phila. This consists of the assembly room where the Declaration of Independence was adopted, the Supreme Court Chamber and the main hallway where rests the Liberty Bell, with its inscription, "Proclaim Liberty Throughout All the Land Unto All the Inhabitants Thereof."

This project is under direction of Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, chairman of the Americanism Department, and a former president of the General Federation, who says: "This project is undertaken as a symbol of our belief in and our support of the great principles expounded and developed in Independence Hall and which now forms the basis of our free way of life. These principles face a serious threat today."

All individuals and organizations will be asked to participate in this patriotic endeavor. Any organization or individual contributing $100, or more will be listed on an honor roll at Independence Hall. The General Federation will conduct a nation-wide essay contest on "What America Means to Me," for school children. The prize for the high school boy or girl winning the contest will be a trip, at the individual's convenience, to Philadelphia to see Independence Hall, Ft. McKinley, all points of interest in Washington, D. C., and the United Nations, New York, N. Y. A prize of $100. will be given the girl or boy in the elementary school class.

All Bucks county schools will join in holding patriotic ceremonies during Americanism Week. It has not been decided whether the schools will participate in the General Federation contest. However, should they do so, the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs will offer a prize of $10. to the Bucks County high school and elementary school boy or girl submitting the best essay.

This Independence Hall project is similar to the project of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs — the furnishing of the historic Thompson-Neely House at Washington Crossing Park, which has been in operation for over a year.

Specs Don't Make You Dowdy

For formal evening wear, select glasses such as these glamorous browline models with gold-filled lace plaques.

By HELEN FOLLETT
NEW designs in glasses are easy on the eyes, whether you are looking through them or at them. These optical ornaments are tops in style.

If you are aware of the fact that your eyes aren't quite what they used to be, if print blurs and you find your eyelids partially closing to keep out light, don't feel specs are going to make you an old lady. Think of all the young people who are wearing them!

In addition to aiding sight, glasses have another advantage. They conceal those dark circles and lines so many women have under their eyes.

Tailor-Made Glasses
You might say that glasses are tailor-made to the individual. First, eye examinations and tests for vision are made. Then, lenses are prescription-ground and set in frames. The glasses are precisely right for the eyes and the frames are designed to flatter the features and personality of the wearer.

You aren't supposed to wear everyday specs when you get into your gala formal, all ready to be the center of attraction. Not at all! Instead, you might select a browline frame with gold-filled lace plaques and a modified sweep line. It's a design that goes well with party attire.

Looks and Looking
When not wearing glasses, keep them in a case. This helps to protect them from dust and accidents. When washing them, never use hot water; the heat could expand the frames, cause the lenses to drop out. Sparkling specs make for sparkling eyes. Spotless lenses improve your looks as well as your looking.

Don't forget that eyestrain has a deplorable effect upon the central nervous system. Remember that a nervous woman is likely to be lacking in poise. Don't pass by beautifully decorative spec cases. They look pretty when you take them out of your purse so you can put on your glasses and read the menu in comfort.

Tailor-Made Glasses
You might say that glasses are tailor-made to the individual. First, eye examinations and tests for vision are made. Then, lenses are prescription-ground and set in frames. The glasses are precisely right for the eyes and the frames are designed to flatter the features and personality of the wearer.

SPORTS IN THE LOCAL FIELD

Levittown L. L. Slates Playoffs For Championship

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 26—Championship playoffs start at 2 p. m. Sunday in the Levittown Little League, President Irving Olin announced today.

The series will continue Monday, and maybe Tuesday.

O'Connor and company, champions in the second half of the season, will vie with the first-half champs, Meenan Oil company for the best of three games.

The Meenan Oilers were second place winners in the second half of the season, while the O'Connors were runners up in mid-season.

Managers Joe Gambelluca, of Meenan, and Hans Von Sydow, of O'Connor, are preparing their mid-game teams for what promises to be a highly competitive series.

The Little League will hold its first annual banquet Sept. 14, at Holiday Inn, Lincoln Highway. Fans may obtain tickets from William Allen Case, chairman of the banquet committee, of 6 Schoolhouse lane. Olin said several guest speakers will attend.

The Levittown League finished its first season Friday, as District II champions.

The American Legion was incorporated by Congress, Sept. 16, 1919.
